DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 6-9, 13-21, and 24-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ishida, et al., in view of Becker, et al., and Rowland et al.

In figures 1 and 3, Ishida, et al., shows an elongated catheter body, an expandable member attached to a distal end of the catheter body; and opaque markers positioned on the expandable member. Additionally, in column 4, line 19, the specification states:

"the material of the balloon (5) may be mixed with X-ray opaque substance such as platinum, gold or the like which constitutes a marker".

Moreover, in column 6, line 55, referring to figure 11, the specification states: "the distal portion (24c) of the balloon (24) may be made solid, and a belt-type marker (24d) made of x-ray opaque substance as described above may be fixed to or embedded in the outer peripheral surface portion (24c)". Importantly, the Ishida, et al. Patent does to expressly disclose the use of ink as a marker on the balloon or the use of markers arranged in specific patterns.

The Becker, et al., Patent shows in figure 3 (above), that it is conventional to use ink as makers (50,52,54) in the outer wall of a catheter. Accordingly, it would have been obvious for a person of ordinary skill in the art to modify the structure of Ishida, et al., and use ink as a marker in the outer surface of the balloon. This enhancement would have been considered an obvious design alternative.

Finally, Rowland, et al., demonstrates that it is conventional in the art to arrange radiopaque markers in specific patterns. Accordingly, it would have been obvious for a person of ordinary skill in the art to modify the radiopaque markers in Ishida, et al., in specific patterns to facilitate locating the areas of the catheter in relation to areas of the body. Conclusively, this enhancement would have been considered an obvious design alternative.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
